

WORK in PROGRESS | 2024 Impact
Report

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Notes from Claire

INTRODUCTION

Business Unusual

GRANTS & GIVING

ACTIVISM

A NOTE FROM

Claire Hough

Peterhouse Girls Head Mistress

“Grab your reader’s
attention with a
great quote
from the document or use this space to emphasise
a key point ”

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera’s first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera’s first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera’s first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera’s first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera’s first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera’s first early childhood development scholarship programme.

Grab your reader's attention with a great quote

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Grab your reader's attention with a
great quote

Materiality Assessment

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

Later, my sister and I worked with the local municipality to support low-income families, which contributed to the creation of Marondera's first early childhood development scholarship programme. It was not a large project, but it showed me how even small forms of support can make a real difference when communities are under pressure.

The main ESRS-mapped topics:

- | | |
|--------------------------|-----|
| (1) GHG Emissions | (5) |
| (2) Water Management | (6) |
| (3) Circular Economy | (7) |
| (4) Justice and Equality | |

shutterstock.com · 1927617395

